ARISTO-CRAFT'S NEW 2-8-0 CONSOLIDATION THE RIGHT LOCO AT THE RIGHT TIME

For all of us here at Aristo-Craft, we've wanted to make the 2-8-0 Consolidation locomotive for more than 10 years, but we wanted to get it just right. 10 years later, that dream is finally becoming a reality as we complete work on this fabulous locomotive due out in early 2009.

Frankly, we are staking our reputation on this beauty and have put everything we know into the production of this locomotive to make it the flag bearer of our line.

The 2-8-0 Consolidation was historically the first and most used of the standard-gauge-era steamers. It is not too big, so it can fit on almost any layout. We suggest a minimum curve of 5' diameter for it.

Handling tight curves are possible because the engine is designed with blind drivers, so it can negotiate those curves well. However, if you have large curves, we will have an upgrade kit of four flanged drivers available when the locomotive ships to stores. The choice is yours, but either way it's a dream performer.

*ARISTO-CRAFT'S PRE-PRODUCTION 2-8-0 CONSOLIDATION SAMPLE

The 2-8-0 engine utilizes our 4-axle motor block, already tested in our great performing Mallet and first introduced in the Mikado. It will use the fanned motor to keep it operating without any chance of over-heating.

The electronics and speaker for the engine will be located in the tender, as we did with the C-16, and connected to the locomotive with a 6-wire plug-in connector.

So, with a tested power drive, plug-and-play electronic system, high-quality motor, our patented smoke system, and the back-up support of the full Aristo-Craft team, this new loco will be the best of the best!

The research on this locomotive was done over several years by a friend, Don Thompson of S-Helper Service, garnering acclaim for accuracy in their version.

ARISTO-CRAFT'S NEW

Our chief engineer Mr. Song has been hard at work on the design of the engine, and the electronics are being done by our in-house electronic engineer, J.K. Kim.

The 2-8-0 is set up for easy battery conversion with a battery switch that kills the power coming to and from the track. The tender can hold a Li-On battery pack inside or in a trailing car. You can also easily double-head this locomotive for more pulling power by removing the front cow catcher.

We are going to do an English and German version of the 2-8-0 on the second run of the locos. This loco was deployed all over the world by lend lease from the U.S. government during and after WWII. However, almost every industrialized nation had them. If interest is viable, we will make even more world editions. The origins of the locomotive were not a derivative of the 0-6-0, but rather the 0-8-0, and was a major upgrade in capabilities from its smaller cousins.

The 2-8-0 Consolidation is being faithfully reproduced by Aristo-Craft at museum quality level. It will also be a work horse mechanically. With all of our 75+ years in the hobby industry and making trains going into this one locomotive, the one question left is: Have you placed an order yet? If not, put it into your purchasing plans. The 2-8-0 Consolidation comes out in early 2009.

2-8-0 Consolidation History
(Reprinted from Wikipedia.org)

Of all the locomotive types that were created and experimented with in the early part of the 19th century, the 2-8-0 was a relative latecomer. Total U.S. production of the class totaled more than 33,000 locomotives of which 12,000 export versions went to the rest of the world. The 2-6-0, often considered the logical forerunner to the 2-8-0, was first created in the early 1860s.

The first locomotive of this wheel arrangement was likely built by the Pennsylvania Railroad (PRR), but like the first 2-6-0s, this first 2-8-0 had a leading axle that was rigidly attached to the locomotive's frame. To create this 2-8-0, the PRR's master mechanic John P. Laird modified an existing 0-8-0, the Bedford between 1864 and 1865. However, in his book, Swengel claims the first 2-8-0 engine was ordered by Lehigh & Mahoning Railroad (USA) and that railway named all its engines. The name given to the new locomotive was "Consolidation." Swengel further claimed the Lehigh 2-8-0 evolved from the 0-8-0 locomotives - rather than a 2-6-0.

NEW ARISTO-CRAFT CLASSICS RAILBUS SET COMING SOON!

The Aristo-Craft Classic Railbus and Sierra Passenger Car are back in production and will be shipping to retailers very soon. The two items will be shipping as a set, Railbus plus the Sierra Coach.

The story of how these items were developed represents a path almost as long as Aristo-Craft has been in existence itself.

The Sierra Passenger Car is one of the first items that Aristo-Craft made 20 years ago. It is fully interior, lit, and has a gingerbread lost-wax detailing on the ends. During development, Aristo-Craft retained the narrow gauge charm of this car for its standard gauge line by choosing a standard gauge prototype that was produced during the late transition era of narrow gauge to standard gauge.

Several years later, the Sierra Passenger Car was converted into a Classic Railbus, allowing all of the dollhouse-like details and charm to be kept while adding a kick of engine power.

Aristo-Craft is bringing the Classic Railbus back and adding a Sierra coach to the consist to double-the great look of this loco on your railroad. It's an eye-catcher that will astonish the casual viewer and impress the hardcore hobbyist, too. The prototypes for the Sierra Coach were fitted with optional vestibules in the real world. We have implemented those same vestibules in our rendition of the car.

Mechanical performance has improved greatly on these items, as well, reflecting the skilling up of our production and engineering. We eliminated the copper brush pickup system years ago, so the pickup brushes no longer act like a brake and roll easily without any drag. Using brass collets to pick up the power has proven much more efficient.

The value of the combination of the loco with a free coach is not something we can continue at these prices, so now would be a great time to pick a pair. We guarantee great fun running this short consist and it does indeed have the "Wow!" factor, which is one of our key goals with everything we produce.

Visit your local retailer or call Aristo-Craft for more information.

Here is the first look at the new Bumblebee Eggliner ART-22714, shipping on September 15th. Get your orders in now; it's sure to go fast.

DOODLEBUG SET SHIPPING SEPTEMBER 15!

The Doodlebug is a derivative of the Standard Heavyweight Combine and is powered with a fully decorated and lit interior. It is correct to scale and a charmer on its own, but to sweeten the deal, we have added a Free Standard Heavyweight matching Coach.

The Standard Heavyweight coaches have been a staple at Aristo-Craft for almost 20 years. They were based on a Jersey Central design and are scale length. The blending of the two items makes this pair an eye-opener on any layout and it will look good as a shelf model, too.

The MSRP is $300 and includes a free $242 MSRP coach, so the value is truly there. We don't know how long we can keep this value going. If you want a self-powered Doodlebug, we think this is the time to add this to your collection. The set ships to retailers on September 15th.

IN DEVELOPMENT: ARISTO-CRAFT FACTORY TOUR DVD

Aristo-Craft is producing a behind-the-scenes DVD intended to give customers a look at how Aristo-Craft makes its products. Viewers will travel with Lewis Polk and Scott Polk to China as they give a tour of Sanda Kan, where Aristo-Craft Trains are made.

All aspects of production are covered in the DVD, tentatively titled, "Journey to the Aristo-Craft Factory," including engineering and design, mold making, plastic injection, painting, electronics, and testing. Also, for the first time, the track manufacturing process will be shown, as well.

The DVD was created to give hobbyists a better sense of what is involved in making a model train. Before the idea for the DVD

Lewis Polk being interviewed

Workers use a spray mask on a loco was conceived, Aristo-Craft offered customer tours, taking groups of hobbyists to the factory to see the production process firsthand.

However, traveling to China is expensive and time-consuming. Hopefully, this DVD will open up that experience to more people, especially those who don't want to make the long trip overseas.

"Journey to the Aristo-Craft Factory" is due out later this year.

MWLSTS IS ALMOST HERE!

by Harry Hartman

Harry Hartman is the Large Scale Show Manager for the East Coast Large Scale Train Show, Southeast Large Scale Train Show, and Midwest Large Scale Train Show.

30 days till the Midwest Large Scale Train Show. Things are falling into place as vendors are getting some great bargains ready for you. If you are in the area and can get to this show, you need to. Months of planning have gone into this show from many of the vendors and clubs/individuals with displays who have signed up to be there.

We have some fantastic large-scale railroad displays signed up for the MWLSTS, including exhibits from Mesa Grande, Gateway Garden Railway Club, a group from the Bloomington/Normal area, and Don Take's display. I have seen pictures of these displays and they all have lots of "wow"s on their displays. Be sure to spend some time looking at each of them.

The list of vendors that have asked for space at the MWLSTS are shown in the sidebar on this page. We still have a couple booths that are open for this show, so if you know a vendor who hasn't signed up yet and would be interested in coming, have them get in touch with JJ Productions ASAP: jjproductions@atlanticbb.net, JJ Productions, P.O. Box 142, Ridgeley, WV 26753, or 908-361-2117.

Don't forget about the MWLSTS Show Engine and Boxcar. They will surely be a sell-out. The MWLSTS Double Door Boxcar is a work of art! Wow, does it look nice! The cost of the boxcar WITH METAL WHEELS will be $50.00 each. What a buy! New design, new packaging, and metal wheels. The show engine will only come in one road number and only 100 are going to be produced. At this time, we do not have a final cost for this show engine. As soon as it becomes available, we will post it on the Aristo-Craft Forum for the Midwest Large Scale Train Show. If the show engine sells out, we will make a second order and change the road number. We have production model samples of each on the previous page. You can see how great these cars and engine will look.

Don't forget to pickup your show t-shirt, too. It will be a black t-shirt with the ever-popular "Still Plays With Trains" on it ($13 for sizes up to XL, $15 for larger than XL). The MWLSTS will be the first show it will be available at. All these items will be available only at the show. You must purchase them AT THE SHOW. No phone orders, no mail orders.

2008 MWLSTS Show T-Shirts

The Visitors Center in Springfield, Illinois has been a tremendous help with local advertising. They are going to announce the show in the local news outlets and has set up some radio interviews for the show. We want to thank them for all their efforts in helping the MWLSTS be a success. Remember, you can help as well by placing an article in your local newspaper about your club/group attending the show and maybe even get some new people in your area interested in this great hobby that we share. Remember your local garden club is a great place to start.

We are starting to look at the 2009 shows. Announcements/invoices will be sent out soon for the 2009 ECLSTS and SELSTS. The dates for the 2009 ECLSTS are March 27 and 28. Vendor/club setup will be March 26.

The 2009 SELSTS dates are May 1 and 2. Vendor/club setup will be April 30. Remember, the dates for the SELSTS have CHANGED for 2009. It will NOT be in February, but in May. This should help with the weather-related problems.

Remember, your attendance at these shows is what keeps it going. The more people attend these shows, the more vendors come to the shows. See you all at the shows. Remember to talk the shows up and bring someone new to the shows with you each time. Help the hobby GROW!

ARISTO-CRAFT TRAINS ANNOUNCES "ECONO-FLEX" TRACK

Aristo-Craft has developed a new flex track using an economy type brass with less copper content to fight rising copper prices. As you know, Aristo-Craft track has 85% pure copper content. This new track is at the legal limit of copper content to be still called brass.

Our flex ties are innovative and match the colors of the ties you have expected from Aristo-Craft for the last 20 years. We also will continue our Lifetime Guarantee on the ties, so you can use our track with confidence.

The ties are designed to be super flexible yet sturdy. Screws hold the ties firmly in place to the rail. Also, the flex track comes with our innovative and easiest-to-use rail joiners. With interlocking ties that will not slide over our true Code 332 rail, this new flex track is a winner!

For this new arrival, we are offering consumers a special introductory deal for 90 days upon first delivery where they can buy 4 boxes of 12 of the brass style. We will also include a FREE Dual Aristo-Tech Rail Bender with each 4 boxes purchased through any one of our trade partners. As you know, the dual rail benders cost as much as $300 and we're giving it away free! This rail bender was designed in-house by our own staff and made by us, not imported through a third party. The rail bender will include our standard five-year warranty that you have learned to trust.

Our flex track is in production now and will come in either the Euro or U.S. versions at really affordable prices. As a surprise announcement, we will also have our Aluminum flex track available at even better pricing, as well as a full line of switches and crossings in Aluminum 332 early next year. Our flex track will be shown at the Midwest Large Scale Train Show and at the I-Hobby Show in Chicago both in October.

These items are in full production right now and will be here when you have finished your track planning. As an aside, you can get these great deals from any one of your favorite Aristo-Craft dealers and not have to join a club to get our best deals.

Aristo-Craft has also upgraded all of their tooling on switches and moved production on these switches, so we can have a tighter control of the Q.C. Please note that we have shown a fabulous slow motion switch machine, also due out in the Fall, and hope to see this water-resistant version become a standard.

These items are available for order now through the entire Aristo-Craft network and the free offers will require the consumer to pay the freight portion as usual.

Onboard RC Solutions For Aristo-Craft Trains

by Lewis Polk

Just as a reminder, the 75 MHz parts for the onboard Train Engineer were discontinued by the maker. Rather than spend another year to re-design it with newly available components, we decided to take a new approach and change to a new worldwide standard called 2.4 GHz.

2.4 GHz has revolutionized the model airplane, ship and car RC industry. Aristo-Craft will move it into the model train world. 2.4 GHz is great for RC model railroading because it is above the frequency noise made by motors in all locomotives, so no filters or other add-on suppressors are required for long-range operation. It's out for quotation on production now and we hope to have some answers by mid-September of 2008. If the production answers are good, we could have production early 2009, but not before.

We have tentatively named the new onboard system the "Revolution" model, but though years of R&D are done, it's still vaporware until we can get it made correctly.

For right now, the trailing car concept is the best solution for onboard train control. We have put the Train Engineer in the trailing reefer and gotten 300' range as the receiver is away from the motor noise. Add batteries and you're up and running immediately without ever needing to clean track or use rail clamps to make sure that there is continuity of current.

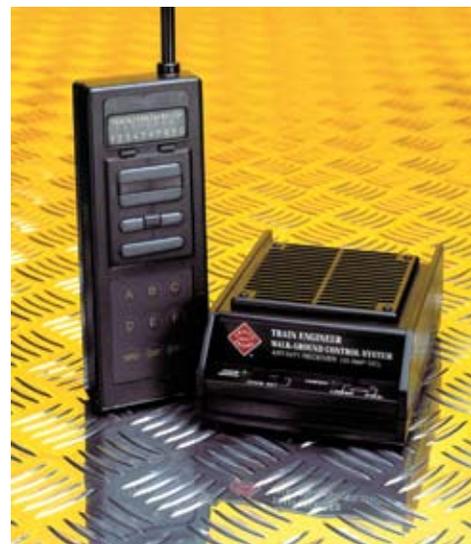

I can't tell you how excited I am by our battery progress. We have found a universal charger at 15V and 1 amp to charge our upcoming NiMH and N_CD batteries. It's excellent for 110 or 230v and will cutoff when the charge is complete.

CRE-55496 Trailing RC Car with Train Engineer receiver installed

Batteries plus our 27 MHz RC car makes operation fun without connectivity or cleaning concerns. Just go outside and have fun! We got a 6-hour plus run with two of our new battery packs in parallel. The new charger should allow a second pack to be recharged in less than the running time. This is significant and will change the face of the hobby.

Also helping out, our new Aluminum rail will allow newcomers to enter the hobby at a much lower start-up cost than with brass or stainless steel. We know that it will take 10 years for the hobby to make a significant change, but you have to have a path and this is it. This is my judgment only and I'm not the only one with input, but I am in a position to make this happen at Aristo-Craft and I will. Plug and play, battery power, wireless R/C with no metal wheels required to keep the costs down. We will have the chargers and batteries on-hand in 60 days or so, so it's not all vaporware. The goal is to keep the technology part behind the scenes and make it so it's easy for all, not just engineer types. We do the engineering and you do the fun! We want to see an explosion of new hobbyists in G. Technology improvements like this will help the cause. Techies can still modify and improve on what we do, but it will not be a necessity to operate and have fun with your hobby. So, if you haven't looked into it, battery power may be just what you're looking for when it comes to increasing enjoyment of your hobby.

*CRE-55470 Train Engineer
